- Attention freshmen, sophomores, and juniors, are you interested in science, technology, engineering or math? Do you like a challenge that includes hands-on experiments and problem solving? If you answered "yes" then WVU Tech's Camp STEM is waiting for you!
  West Virginia University Institute of Technology (WVU Tech) has an exciting summer camp for West Virginia's current or incoming high school students interested in STEM fields.
  Camp STEM is a weeklong exploration of careers in science, technology, engineering and math that will be held from June 23 – 28, 2019.
  Camp STEM brings students to WVU Tech's campus in Beckley, West Virginia for college-level STEM instruction. Students can attend courses in a variety of STEM fields such as computer science, chemistry, automotive engineering, electrical engineering and forensic science as WVU Tech professors guide them through experiments, provide lectures and give demonstrations. Outside the classroom, students will work in teams on a weeklong robotics project, attend guest lectures by STEM professionals and embark on fields trips.
  The cost for this camp is $600per camper, but we offer a limited number full and partial need-based scholarships.
  At Camp STEM, students will experience campus life by living in our residence halls, eating in WVU Tech's Bears Den dining hall and relaxing in one of our campus recreation facilities. Students are supervised by WVU Tech student counselors, who are upper-classmen studying STEM disciplines.
  See Mrs. Artimez in the Counseling Office for more details about this summer camp.
