

My name is Lauren Hines and I am a freshman Innovation Scholar in the Innovation Scholar Program at the University of Charleston. The Innovation Scholar Program is an elite group of individuals, founded in 2015, who are seeking more than your typical college experience. The goal of our program is to spread innovation around West Virginia. We do this by encouraging new ways of thinking and preparing every scholar with real-world professional experience that they would not receive elsewhere. We are currently seeking to grow our program to more than triple our current size. We want to increase the professional growth of each of our members and give them opportunities they can carry out for the rest of their careers. If you currently know a high school junior or senior that is ready to begin their journey and unlock their true potential in the Innovation Scholar Program at the University of Charleston, contact us today!

Respectfully,

Lauren Hines
